

EERA TO DISCONTINUE ACTIVITY ON X (FORMERLY TWITTER)

For some weeks, the European Energy Research Alliance (EERA) has been less active on X (formerly Twitter). Today, we are making it official: we have decided to discontinue our activity on this platform.

At EERA, we believe that diversity of perspectives and inclusive dialogue are fundamental to scientific progress. Advancing low-carbon energy research and innovation requires a constructive and meaningful exchange of ideas involving researchers, policymakers, industry, and society at large. In our view, this approach is no longer supported by this particular communication channel.

We invite the energy research community and related stakeholders to follow our work through our official website and LinkedIn, where we will continue to share updates, insights, and opportunities related to our mission of catalysing European energy research for a climate-neutral society by 2050.

- To follow EERA's LinkedIn page, click here: <https://www.linkedin.com/company/5346399/admin/page-posts/published/>
- To remain informed on the EERA community's news and events on our website, click here: <https://www.eera-set.eu/>

Thank you for your continued support!

The EERA team